

UNIVERSITY COLLEGE LONDON
AND THE
BRITISH SOCIETY FOR MEDICAL MYCOLOGY

MSc/Diploma in Medical Mycology

This unique course provides postgraduate training in all aspects of Medical Mycology and is aimed at those with a keen interest in laboratory or clinical mycology.

Open to laboratory scientists, registered medical practitioners and other health care professionals holding relevant qualifications, the course is delivered by UCL through distance learning and is taught jointly with the British Society of Medical Mycology giving students access to national and international expertise.

This modular course allows a flexible approach to learning, enabling students to complete in two to five years. Course material is delivered via DVD and supported by a web based teaching environment. Practical training is provided by BSMM courses in Leeds and Bristol and completion of a project.

For further information please contact:

Anne Dickens, Programme Administrator
Centre for Medical Microbiology
Department of Infection
Royal Free & UCL Medical School
Rowland Hill Street
London NW3 2PF
Tel 0207 794 0500 ex 33546

Email: a.dickens@medsch.ucl.ac.uk